Library Embraces Sustainability

The South Huntington Public Library is among seven libraries across New York State that have been selected to participate in a unique project sponsored by the New York Library Association's Sustainability Initiative.

The chosen libraries will collaborate with groups and organizations in their communities to identify and address a community challenge. The goal is to create economically sound, socially just and environmentally responsible communities.

"We're making an investment in New York libraries that will help to demonstrate a library's capacity to serve as conveners and leaders within the community," said Jeremy Johannesen, executive director of the New York Library Association. "The program will provide the building blocks for public libraries to contribute to the sustainability of their communities."

In this context, sustainable thinking aligns the library's core values and resources with the community's to create a better place to live and work. Core values include access, democracy, diversity, education, and social responsibility, among others. The library will work to develop its planned project over the next year or so, and more details will be forthcoming.

Librarians Get Their Comic Con On

Local librarians, including two from South Huntington, recently appeared at New York Public Library as part of New York Comic Con 2017. They shared their knowledge as members of the panel at a workshop entitled, "How Pop Culture Topics can Transform the Conversation at Your Library." South Huntington Young Adult Librarians Jen Griffing and Liz Hughes, and Mike Buono from Patchogue-Medford Library worked with moderator Helen Crosson, director of the Half Hollow Hills Library. The discussion focused on how library programs can be opportunities to attract non-library users by using unique settings and locations and a variety of pop culture fandoms. Jen emphasized that listening to patrons and having a supportive administration were key to the success of South Huntington's young adult programs such as Cupcake Wars, Jeopardy, Winter Reading Carnival and Zombie Survival Training.

RECITAL SERIES

Piano Duo: Evelyn Ulex & Pablo Lavandera
Sun., Nov. 19
at 2:30 p.m.

This talented pair will present a fabulous piano 4-hand program with music by Satie, Ginastera, Debussy, Rachmaninoff, Gershwin and more. All welcome.

ART EXHIBIT

'Order From Chaos,' abstract paintings by Lawrence Monat
Opening reception: Sat., Nov. 11, 2-4 p.m.
Exhibit: Nov. 11-Dec. 6

Mr. Monat uses predominant colors on each canvas he paints, intersecting lines and marks, creating dynamic tensions and rhythms that suggest traffic moving, electrical circuits, and city grids, a kind of order from chaos. He says his vision reflects joy in life and his view of the frenetic nature of the modern world. A self-taught painter, Mr. Monat is an attorney and longtime resident of South Huntington. He maintains a studio in Patchogue.

MEET THE AUTHOR

COLLEEN EREN: BERNIE MADOFF AND THE CRISIS

Thur., Nov. 9 at 7 p.m.

Dr. Colleen Eren, a South Huntington resident and professor of sociology, discusses her new book, Bernie Madoff and the Crisis (Stanford University Press), featuring interviews she conducted for over four years with Madoff from prison. She will examine our obsession with the Madoff case and its treatment in the media, and how this infamous Ponzi scheme case became a way for Americans to contend with larger social and economic issues like wealth inequality, regulation, and punishment of white collar crime. The book offers fresh insight into the 2008 financial crisis and Madoff, and what we have yet to learn from the case of the century. Books will be available for purchase and signing. Join us!
