

Why I volunteer....

I volunteer in my community because I enjoy giving back. It makes me feel like I am a part of something bigger than me. I have helped out at St. Joseph's College taking pictures for events and it has improved my skills as a photographer. I used to be very shy, but now I get to meet new people from all over Long Island and cool authors and I even made new friends. It is also work experience that I use on job applications.

Me with author, Torrey Maldonado